Safe Time – cloud based agency supply management system

Autumn 2011 release

Safe Computing, the developers of market leading Safe Tempest software, has unveiled a new cloud based solution for recruiters and buyers of temporary labour.

Safe Time can be used by recruitment agencies to manage on-site recruitment operations or enable recruiters to provide neutral vendor services in the market.

Alternatively, it can also be used by companies who employ temporary labour to directly manage and coordinate the recruitment suppliers they use and monitor AWR compliance for the temps they employ.

The solution is cloud based and delivered via portals that cover the needs of the supplying agency, the hirer and the candidate. The core features cover functionality that enables a user to create roles, define rates, define rules against rates, allows multiple agency suppliers to fill the roles, collect and authorise time data and then produce a single weekly consolidated invoice to the client for all agencies.

Delivery and setup is very fast and being a cloud based solution the technology is managed by Safe, with the solution being paid for on a transaction cost basis, which minimises initial outlay.

Safe Computing has a long pedigree in developing innovative software and services for any recruitment industry, with much of its software being used by the majority of top UK 50 recruitment companies in the UK.

Safe Time is already established and used by leading UK agencies.
